A Feast for ODIN

Appendix

*“Nine arts are familiar to me:
in board games I am practiced well
the runes I interpret rarely wrong
I know how to read and to work with iron and wood,
slide with skis over the country,
bend the bow, row to one’s heart’s content, practice my mind in both arts: to rhyme odes and to play the harp.”*

Rögnvaldr Kali, Jarl from the Orkneys (12th century)

This appendix is for reference only. You do not have to read it before your first game.

Part 1 lists all of the occupation cards in numerical order. The depictions on the occupations cards are intentionally succinct. If you cannot figure out what an occupation does, read the elaborate description in this part. Part 2 explains the placement rules as illustrated on the boards and tiles. Part 3 provides an overview of how to use certain resources. Part 4 is about the goods in the game, and part 5 is about the boards and building tiles.

1. Occupation Card Index

Each occupation card shows a number at the bottom right, which facilitates finding the card in the card list. The basic rules for cards are explained on pages 21-22 of the rule book. Starting occupations have lower-case letters (a, b, c), occupations you draw during the game have upper-case letters (A, B, C). In general: whenever the text on an occupation card contradicts a rule, the card takes precedence.

Nb.	Deck	Name	Points	Description	Type
1	A	Peddler	0	Each time you use a “Livestock Market” action space, you receive a discount of 1 silver on the total cost of the goods. (For instance, cattle plus milk cost you 2 instead of 3 silver.) You do not receive the discount on goods that are already free of cost.	EACH TIME CARD

- Please note that you cannot cover the pillars in the middle of the long houses.
- Orange and red goods remain in your houses for the rest of the game: do not remove them. (In reality these goods would decay, but they do not in this game.)
- You cannot place ore in your houses. You can place wood and stone, but only on the designated spaces of your sheds and stone houses.
- The special tiles are considered to be blue and follows the same rules as the blue good tiles.

Additional Rules for Sheds and Stone Houses

You can place the following pieces on the designated spaces of your sheds and stone houses:

- wood tokens
- stone tokens

3. The Resources

The following overview summarizes what you need building resources, silver, and weapons for in this game.

Resource	How to get ...?	What do I need it for?
 Wood	Wood is available on mountain strips and on the “1 Wood per Player and 1 Ore from the General Supply” action space. You also receive 1 wood for each failed hunting attempt (“Hunting Game”, “Laying a Snare”, “Whaling”). You can get wood as a bonus good.	For the most part, wood is used to build ships and as a weapon for hunting. Other uses: On some “Crafting” action spaces, you can build chests with wood. You can also use wood to build sheds, which allow you to store up to 3 wood (and stone) in them, to avoid negative points. Each stone house allows you to store 1 wood.
 Stone		For the most part, stone is used to build houses and as a weapon for raiding and pillaging. Other uses: On some “Crafting” action spaces, you can make rune stones from stone. You can play an occupation for 1 stone. You can store up to 3 stone (and wood) in each shed, to avoid negative points. Each stone house allows you to store 1 stone.
 Ore		For the most part, ore is used to make your whaling boats and longships stronger, and you can place it on your home board and exploration boards. Other uses: On some “Crafting” action spaces, you can build chests from ore, or you can use it to forge special tiles with a forge tongs symbol. You can play an occupation for 1 ore.
 Silver	Often you will be short just a few silver to buy a ship or to emigrate. You can earn 1 silver coin quickly... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> via any of the Weekly Market actions, each time you make a rune stone or build a chest, each time you take an occupation into your hand, each time you play an occupation for 1 stone/ore. You can earn 2 silver coins... <ul style="list-style-type: none"> as well as 2 mead on an action space, when you make clothing from hides and linen, on mountain strips, if available. 	You can collect silver coins. Each coin is worth 1 point at the end of the game. Or you can spend your silver. Many action spaces (like “Overseas Trading”) and occupations come with a price that you must pay in order to take the action. You can use silver to buy ships, paying the ship’s point value in silver. You can also use silver to cover spaces in your placement areas and Banquet Table.
 Weapons	 In phase 4 of each round, you receive a new weapon card. Also, you receive weapons as consolation for failed dice roll attempts.	You need the “bow and arrow” weapon card to be successful when “Hunting Game.” Snares are required when “Laying a Snare.” Your Vikings use spears for “Whaling.” Long swords improve your dice rolls for “Raiding” and “Pillaging.”  Weapons have no other uses than those mentioned. So you should spend them whenever you can to improve your dice rolls.

4. The Goods

This section provides an overview of all the goods in the game.

Building Resource Tokens

There are three types of building resources: wood, stone, and ore. You can get them in many different ways.

On “Take Building Resources” action spaces, you can take building resources from mountain strips (see rules page 15).

On the “1 Wood per Player and 1 Ore” action space, you receive building resources from the general supply.

Your home board features a bonus space for each type of building resource (see rules page 11). So do some of the exploration boards.

You receive 1 wood for each failed hunting attempt and 1 stone for each failed raiding and pillaging attempt (see rules page 17).

Basic Goods

Basic goods come as tiles. Some action spaces allow you to exchange tiles for other tiles of the same size: You receive farm products (orange) in the Harvest phase (see rules page 8). These can be exchanged for animal products (red), which in turn can be exchanged for craft products (green). Finally, craft products can be exchanged for luxury goods (blue).

This is how the exchange actions look like.

You can also check the goods boxes to see which goods can be exchanged for one another: those are situated in columns.

Special Tiles

There are 15 different special tiles and three ways to acquire them.

Raiding and Pillaging

When raiding and pillaging, you can acquire 1 blue goods tile for its printed sword value—this can be a standard good or one of the special tiles.

The “Amber Figure” special tile, for instance, has a sword value of 9.

Forge

This is the forging action space. Here you can forge 1 good with a forge tongs symbol (using 3 Vikings) for 1 ore. Seven of the special tiles (see the following table) and the basic blue “jewelry” goods tile have a forge tongs symbol.

Special Sale

If you have a knarr, this action space allows you to buy up to 2 special tiles (using 3 Vikings). You must pay the depicted amount of silver (as shown below a purse icon, see also the following table).

The Glass Beads are the only special tile to cost nothing.

List of All Special Tiles

“# of spaces” means how many spaces the tile covers when placed in a placement area.

5. The Boards and Tiles

Home Board

Your home board features a placement area, in which you will place green and blue goods at first. Keep in mind that you can also place ore and silver to fill in any gaps you leave.

In the bottom left, you can find stables for your sheep and cattle. Some texts on occupation cards make reference to your stables.

At the top right, there is your Banquet Table, and below that, a bay with landing stages for your ships.

(The little space at the bottom left of your home board is only used in the solo game. This is where you place five Vikings of the second color.)

Building Tiles: Sheds and Houses

There are three types of buildings: sheds, stone houses, and long houses. There are three each of sheds and stone houses, as well as five long houses.

Sheds are worth 8 points each and feature 6 negative points—for a net worth of 2 points. You can avoid the negative points by placing wood and stone on the designated spaces before the scoring. (Usually there is no reason to place the resources any earlier, unless you have an occupation card that says otherwise.)

Stone houses are worth 10 points and feature 9 negative points—for a net worth of 1 point. You can avoid 7 of those negative points by placing goods tiles in the placement area. This way you can also unlock hides as a bonus good. The other 2 negative points can be avoided by placing 1 wood and 1 stone on the designated spaces before the scoring.

Long houses are worth 17 points and feature 15 negative points—for a net worth of 2 points. You can avoid the negative points by placing goods tiles in the placement area. This way you can also unlock oil, beans, and peas as bonus goods. Note the two pillars in each long house. You cannot cover those.

- When placing goods, keep in mind you cannot place orange goods adjacent to one another, just as you cannot place red goods adjacent to one another.
- The illustration at the bottom of the house tiles reminds you that you cannot place ore in your houses.

Exploration Boards

Baffin Island

Bear Island

Faroe Islands

Greenland

Iceland

Labrador

Newfoundland

Shetland

• Baffin Island: Assuming nobody explores the Faroe Islands (on the other side of the board), you can explore Baffin Island from round 4 (in the short game from round 3). If you explore Baffin Island in rounds 5/6/7 (in the short game one round earlier), you will also receive 2/4/4 silver. Its positive point value of 12 is countered by 24 negative points on its spaces.

• Bear Island: Assuming nobody explores Shetland (on the other side of the board), you can explore Bear Island from round 3 (in the short game from round 2). If you explore Bear Island in rounds 4/5/6/7 (in the short game one round earlier), you will also receive 2/4/6/6 silver. Like Iceland, Bear Island features a bonus space providing two bonus goods: 1 rune stone and 1 ore. Its positive point value of 12 is countered by 22 negative points on its spaces.

- Faroe Islands: The Faroe Islands are available in rounds 1 to 3 (in the short game only in rounds 1 and 2). After that, the exploration board is turned to the other side, becoming “Baffin Island.” If you explore the Faroe Islands in the last available round, you will also receive 2 silver. The Faroe Islands stand out due to their many potential Bonus. Its positive point value of 4 is countered by 16 negative points on its spaces.

- Greenland: Greenland is available in rounds 1 to 5 (in the short game only in rounds 1 to 4). After that, the exploration board is turned to the other side, becoming “Newfoundland.” If you explore Greenland in the last three available rounds (3/4/5 in the long game, 2/3/4 in the short game), you will also receive 2/4/6 silver, respectively. Greenland features two “income diagonals,” both providing silver each round. (So you can get up to 8 silver each round from Greenland.) The placement rules to unlock the income values apply to each income diagonal individually. Its positive point value of 12 is countered by 20 negative points on its spaces.

Here you can see how someone going for both income diagonals.

- Iceland: Iceland is available in rounds 1 to 4 (in the short game only in rounds 1 to 3). After that, the exploration board is turned to the other side, becoming “Labrador.” If you explore Iceland within the last two available rounds (3/4 in the long game, 2/3 in the short game), you will also receive 2 and 4 silver respectively. Iceland is special in that it has a bonus space providing two bonus goods: 1 stone and 1 ore. Its positive point value of 16 is countered by 24 negative points on its spaces.

- Labrador: Assuming nobody explores Iceland (on the other side of the board), you can explore Labrador from the third to last round. If you explore Labrador in rounds 6/7 (in the short game one round earlier), you will also receive 2 silver. Its positive point value of 36 is countered by 40 negative points on its spaces.

- Newfoundland: Assuming nobody explores Greenland (on the other side of the board), you can explore Newfoundland from the last two rounds. Newfoundland features many valuable Bonus that you can only receive in the second to last round (due to the fact that the game ends before the Bonus phase of the last round). The Cloakpin and stone house Bonus are only available once and three times, respectively. If they are gone already by the time the Bonus phase is played, you do not receive those bonuses. Its positive point value of 38 is countered by 40 negative points on its spaces.

- Shetland: Shetland is only available in rounds 1 and 2 (in the short game only in round 1). After that, the exploration board is turned to the other side, becoming “Bear Island.” The smaller part of Shetland provides a steady income of silver, the larger provides valuable bonuses. You should try to cover the larger part of Shetland with special tiles showing a forge tongs symbol, especially the Fibula. Its positive point value of 6 is countered by 24 negative points on its spaces.

Exploration action spaces are available in this row of the action board:

As you can see, it does not matter what ship you use to explore the short-distance places Shetland and Faroe Islands.
